

FOLSOM CITY CLERK DEF
18 FEB '20 PM5:04

February 10, 2020

Folsom City Council
50 Natoma Street
Folsom, CA 95630

Honorable Mayor Aquino and Members of the Folsom City Council,

The Folsom Area Democratic Club is formally asking that you begin the process to change Folsom City Council elections from at-large to by-district. The more than 80 members of our club and 350 Folsom residents, who signed the attached petition, support such a change in our city's election system.

We believe that Folsom's use of an at-large election system places a significant electoral obstacle before minority groups and other "protected classes" of citizens in Folsom. The City of Folsom is racially and ethnically diverse. Roughly 13% of the population is Asian, 11% is Hispanic and 5% is African-American (Census Data July 2016). Unfortunately, the City's diversity is not reflected in the current City Council, nor has it been reflected in prior City Councils. Californians have called for the replacement of at-large local election methods with district-based elections in furtherance of the State's commitment to upholding voting rights for minority voters protected by the California Voting Rights Act (CVRA). Over the past two years, several Northern California cities have transitioned, or are in the process of transitioning, from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA. These cities include Davis, Lincoln, Citrus Heights, Elk Grove, Roseville, Menlo Park, Santa Rosa, Fremont, Concord, Brentwood and Antioch.

Additionally, by-district elections are less expensive for cities to conduct than at-large elections. Cities with by-district elections require fewer ballots resulting in lowered electoral expenses. City elections cost roughly $1 per registered voter. Folsom has 40,000 registered voters, which equals $40,000 for a citywide election. By contrast, if the 2020 City Council election were by-district, the cost to elect two Council members would drop to $16,000, saving the City $24,000. It is also more affordable for candidates running for City Council. Campaigning in only one fifth of the city would allow more grassroots candidates to compete by talking to their neighbors, rather than by having to raise a great deal of money from special interests in order to campaign using mass media, such as mailers.

Finally, by-district elections honor the principle of “one person, one vote” by ensuring that voters have one representative who is specifically accountable to the voters and neighborhoods that elected him or her. By-district requires candidates to campaign in their local neighborhoods, talk to their neighbors, and get to know their issues because that is who will elect them. Once elected, councilmembers can focus on smaller geographic areas and can provide better representation to their constituents, which is not possible under the current system. With any issue it will be much easier to contact one City Councilmember who is directly accountable to his or her constituents.

We look forward to the City Council beginning deliberations on by-district elections and hope to see this process completed by May 1, 2020.

Sincerely,

Vijay Bhaskar Jonnalagadda
President,
Folsom Area Democratic Club

PETITION

Sept 7, 2019
Farmer's Mt

To Folsom City Council:

We, the undersigned residents of Folsom, petition the Council and ask that it change City Council elections to "by-district" elections replacing the current "at-large" election system. We support by-district elections for the following three reasons:

1. Less Expensive

By-district elections are less expensive for cities to conduct than at-large elections. Cities with by-district elections require fewer ballots resulting in lowered electoral expenses. City elections cost roughly $1 per registered voter plus other fixed costs. Folsom has 40,000 registered voters, which equals $40,000 per registered voter for an at-large election. If the 2020 City Council election were by-district (consisting of 5 districts), the cost to elect two Council members would drop to $16,000, saving the City $24,000. It is also more affordable for candidates running for City Council. Running in only 1/5th of the city allows more candidates to compete by talking to their neighbors, rather than having to raise a great deal of money from special interests in order to campaign using mass media like mailers.

2. More Democratic

By-district elections honor the principle of "one person, one vote" by ensuring that voters have one representative who is specifically accountable to the voters and neighborhoods that elected him/her. By-district elections require candidates to campaign in their local neighborhoods, talk to their neighbors, and get to know their issues because they are who will elect them.

3. Increases Diversity

The City of Folsom is racially and ethnically diverse. Roughly 13% of the population is Asian, 11% is Hispanic and 5% is African-American. Unfortunately, the City's diversity is not reflected in the current City Council, nor has it been reflected in prior City Councils. Californians have called for the replacement of at-large local election methods with district-based elections in furtherance of the State's commitment to upholding voting rights for minority voters protected by the California Voting Rights Act (CVRA). The CVRA prohibits at-large election systems from impairing the ability of minority groups to elect candidates of their choice. Numerous cities have been successfully sued under the CVRA (Palmdale, Santa Monica, Modesto). In 2018, several Northern California cities have transitioned or are in the process of transitioning from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA, including Citrus Heights.

To Folsom City Council:

We, the undersigned residents of Folsom, petition the Council and ask that it change City Council elections to "by-district" elections replacing the current "at-large" election system. We support by-district elections for the following three reasons:

1. Less Expensive

By-district elections are less expensive for cities to conduct than at-large elections. Cities with by-district elections require fewer ballots resulting in lowered electoral expenses. City elections cost roughly $1 per registered voter plus other fixed costs. Folsom has 40,000 registered voters, which equals $40,000 per registered voter for an at-large election. If the 2020 City Council election were by-district (consisting of 5 districts), the cost to elect two Council members would drop to $16,000, saving the City $24,000. It is also more affordable for candidates running for City Council. Running in only 1/5th of the city allows more candidates to compete by talking to their neighbors, rather than having to raise a great deal of money from special interests in order to campaign using mass media like mailers.

2. More Democratic

By-district elections honor the principle of "one person, one vote" by ensuring that voters have one representative who is specifically accountable to the voters and neighborhoods that elected him/her. By-district elections require candidates to campaign in their local neighborhoods, talk to their neighbors, and get to know their issues because they are who will elect them.

3. Increases Diversity

The City of Folsom is racially and ethnically diverse. Roughly 13% of the population is Asian, 11% is Hispanic and 5% is African-American. Unfortunately, the City's diversity is not reflected in the current City Council, nor has it been reflected in prior City Councils. Californians have called for the replacement of at-large local election methods with district-based elections in furtherance of the State's commitment to upholding voting rights for minority voters protected by the California Voting Rights Act (CVRA). The CVRA prohibits at-large election systems from impairing the ability of minority groups to elect candidates of their choice. Numerous cities have been successfully sued under the CVRA (Palmdale, Santa Monica, Modesto). In 2018, several Northern California cities have transitioned or are in the process of transitioning from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA, including Citrus Heights.

To Folsom City Council:

We, the undersigned residents of Folsom, petition the Council and ask that it change City Council elections to "by-district" elections replacing the current "at-large" election system. We support by-district elections for the following three reasons:

1. Less Expensive

By-district elections are less expensive for cities to conduct than at-large elections. Cities with by-district elections require fewer ballots resulting in lowered electoral expenses. City elections cost roughly $1 per registered voter plus other fixed costs. Folsom has 40,000 registered voters, which equals $40,000 per registered voter for an at-large election. If the 2020 City Council election were by-district (consisting of 5 districts), the cost to elect two Council members would drop to $16,000, saving the City $24,000. It is also more affordable for candidates running for City Council. Running in only 1/5th of the city allows more candidates to compete by talking to their neighbors, rather than having to raise a great deal of money from special interests in order to campaign using mass media like mailers.

2. More Democratic

By-district elections honor the principle of "one person, one vote" by ensuring that voters have one representative who is specifically accountable to the voters and neighborhoods that elected him/her. By-district elections require candidates to campaign in their local neighborhoods, talk to their neighbors, and get to know their issues because they are who will elect them.

3. Increases Diversity

The City of Folsom is racially and ethnically diverse. Roughly 13% of the population is Asian, 11% is Hispanic and 5% is African-American. Unfortunately, the City's diversity is not reflected in the current City Council, nor has it been reflected in prior City Councils. Californians have called for the replacement of at-large local election methods with district-based elections in furtherance of the State's commitment to upholding voting rights for minority voters protected by the California Voting Rights Act (CVRA). The CVRA prohibits at-large election systems from impairing the ability of minority groups to elect candidates of their choice. Numerous cities have been successfully sued under the CVRA (Palmdale, Santa Monica, Modesto). In 2018, several Northern California cities have transitioned or are in the process of transitioning from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA, including Citrus Heights.

In 2018, several Northern California cities have transitioned or are in the process of transitioning from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA, including Citrus Heights.

PETITION

To Folsom City Council:

We, the undersigned residents of Folsom, petition the Council and ask that it change City Council elections to "by-district" elections replacing the current "at-large" election system. We support by-district elections for the following three reasons:

1. Less Expensive

By-district elections are less expensive for cities to conduct than at-large elections. Cities with by-district elections require fewer ballots resulting in lowered electoral expenses. City elections cost roughly $1 per registered voter plus other fixed costs. Folsom has 40,000 registered voters, which equals $40,000 per registered voter for an at-large election. If the 2020 City Council election were by-district (consisting of 5 districts), the cost to elect two Council members would drop to $16,000, saving the City $24,000. It is also more affordable for candidates running for City Council. Running in only 1/5th of the city allows more candidates to compete by talking to their neighbors, rather than having to raise a great deal of money from special interests in order to campaign using mass media like mailers.

2. More Democratic

By-district elections honor the principle of "one person, one vote" by ensuring that voters have one representative who is specifically accountable to the voters and neighborhoods that elected him/her. By-district elections require candidates to campaign in their local neighborhoods, talk to their neighbors, and get to know their issues because they are who will elect them.

3. Increases Diversity

The City of Folsom is racially and ethnically diverse. Roughly 13% of the population is Asian, 11% is Hispanic and 5% is African-American. Unfortunately, the City's diversity is not reflected in the current City Council, nor has it been reflected in prior City Councils. Californians have called for the replacement of at-large local election methods with district-based elections in furtherance of the State's commitment to upholding voting rights for minority voters protected by the California Voting Rights Act (CVRA). The CVRA prohibits at-large election systems from impairing the ability of minority groups to elect candidates of their choice. Numerous cities have been successfully sued under the CVRA (Palmdale, Santa Monica, Modesto). In 2018, several Northern California cities have transitioned or are in the process of transitioning from at-large to by-district voting to avoid running afoul of the CVRA, including Citrus Heights.

Vijay Bhaskar Jonnalagadda	Folsom, CA	2019-09-03	"By-District model is more democratic and keeps elected council members more responsible. Also, reduces expenses for both candidates and the city. All that nastiness and competition during elections will be cut because you will have to convince only your district's voters that you are fit for the job."
Jenifer Jacobs	folsom, CA	2019-09-10	"I'd like the Folsom City Council to include a more diverse group of people - those who represent a smaller district in particular."
Marguerite Storbo	Folsom, CA	2019-09-10	"I love the idea of election reform! Let's change things up a bit and maybe get some more/different voices at City Hall."
Lois Ballard	Orangevale, CA	2019-09-19	"Lois Ballard Folsom, CA United States"
Kavita Sood	Folsom, CA	2019-09-20	"It shows more accountability.."
Lisa Griffith	Dallas, GA	2019-10-05	"I pay plenty for dish this is ridiculous we should all the channels we signed up for come on !!"
